

31st March 2023

Dear Parent/Carer

YEAR THREE & YEAR FOUR: RSE TEACHING IN THE SUMMER TERM 2023

All children will be completing their Relationships Sex Education at some point next term. As you will be aware, the DfE guidance for Relationships and Health Education became statutory from September 2020.

We are very aware that the RSE we deliver in school is only a small part of children's learning about their bodies, keeping safe, emotions, relationships and themselves. The majority of children's learning in this area takes place with you at home.

Questions that will be answered across the Year Three and Four units include:

- How are male and female bodies different, and what are the different parts called? (R)
- When do we talk about our bodies, how they change, and who do we talk to? (R)
- What can my body do and how is it special?
- Why is it important to keep myself clean? (H)
- What can I do for myself to stay clean, and how will this change in the future? (H)
- How do different illnesses and diseases spread and what can I do to prevent this? (H)
- What are the main stages of the human life cycle? (Science)
- How did I begin? (Sex Ed)
- What does it mean to be 'grown up'? (H)
- What am I responsible for now, and how will this change? (H)
- How do different caring, stable, adult relationships create a secure environment for children to grow up in? (R)

Hopefully you will find the attached leaflet, provided to us by the Cambridgeshire PSHCE Service, very informative. We use this service for our planning and delivery material to aid the children on their personal learning journey.

If you have any questions regarding the units of work that are covered from Year Three to Six, please do not hesitate to contact the school office office@crosshalljunior.co.uk

Yours sincerely,

Mrs Amy Archer
Head of Year Four

Talking to children about Relationships

Support and information for primary school families

In school we aim to help children to learn to respect themselves and others and move safely and confidently from childhood, through adolescence, into adulthood. We deliver much of this work through Relationships and Health Education, which are statutory parts of the broader subject, PSHE. As part of our programme we provide Relationships and Sex Education (RSE). This programme begins as soon as children arrive in school and continues until the end of secondary school. There is more information on our programme in this leaflet.

We are very aware that the RSE we deliver in school is only a small part of children's learning about their bodies, keeping safe, emotions, relationships, sexual behaviour, sexuality, sexual health and themselves. The majority of children's learning in this area takes place with you at home.

We hope this leaflet gives you some more information about our partnership in developing children's knowledge, skills and attitudes relating to RSE.

Why should parents/carers talk to their children about relationships, bodies and sex?

- Children tell us they want their parents/carers to be the first ones to talk to them about puberty, sex and relationships.
- If families start talking to their children about bodies, puberty, sex and relationships, they are less likely to get ideas that worry or confuse them and they learn that it's alright to talk about these things at home and to ask for help if they need it.
- Children learn most about values and relationships from family experiences. Close, loving relationships are the best way of showing a young person how your family 'does things' based on your values, culture, faith and beliefs.

If families talk about relationships, bodies and sex openly and honestly, young people as they get older are:

- more likely to be able to keep themselves safe from abuse and report it
- more prepared for puberty and the changes they will experience
- more likely to delay having sex for the first time
- more likely to avoid non-consensual or unwanted sexual activity
- more likely to use contraception if they do have sex
- less likely to have an unplanned pregnancy or to get a sexually transmitted infection.

How can I talk to my child about sex and relationships?

- Read a book, leaflet or watch a video with your child.
- Talk while you're doing something else like washing up or driving.
- Enjoy talking. Laugh with each other, not at each other – it can reduce embarrassment and stress.
- Listen rather than judge. Ask them what they think.
- Answer questions and don't be afraid to say you don't know.
- Have a phrase ready for awkward moments – 'That's a good question. Let's talk about it when we get home'.
- Always respond – don't change the subject. Give the message it's important to talk about sex and relationships.
- If it feels too personal, talk about people in books, films, or TV series/ soaps.

How can I talk to my child about sex and relationships?

Children and young people want to talk to their parents/carers about sex and relationships, but that can be daunting for a parent/carer. One group of 10-16-year-olds came up with these helpful pieces of advice for parents/carers:

- Take responsibility for talking to us. Don't just wait for us to ask.
- If we ask you things, always tell the truth. Don't put it off or say 'I'll tell you when you're older'
- Don't be angry and try not to be embarrassed.
- Don't save it all up for a one-off 'birds and bees' lecture. We'd rather you talked naturally, little and often.
- Wait until we're home and on our own together to avoid embarrassment.
- Make sure we know what you're talking about and let us ask you questions.
- If we ask what a word means, ask us what we think the word means first.
- Don't laugh at us or spread gossip about what we have been talking about.
- If you don't know something, be honest and say that you don't know.
- Give us books or leaflets, but talk to us too
- Don't expect school to tell us everything – we want to hear from our parents/ carers as well.

What can I say to my child?

Get ideas about what to say from a book like:

'Questions Children Ask' by Miriam Stoppard, or

'Let's Talk about Where Babies Come From' by Robie Harris.

For more information

The programme above sets out the questions children will consider during this topic. If you would like to know more about the structure of the lessons or the resources we use, please get in touch through the school office. Parents/carers have the right to withdraw their children from the parts marked as 'Sex Education' which cover how a baby is made and how a baby is born. If you'd like more information about how to withdraw your child, please contact the school office.
